Big Bang Baloney

In the time of Galileo when the common mind blew shut
His claim the Earth flew 'round the Sun got him viewed as a nut
We've bid adieu to days a slew of dunces held dominion
Now no one shoos you off to jail for brewing an opinion

*That being said I'd like to shed some light upon creation
But who can say which wondrous way the stars found their formation
Most science guys are bright... not blind to much that's fake or phony
So I'm surprised that they'd align with such 'Big Bang' baloney*

To begin with there was nothing then there rang an awesome bang
From one great gust we all should trust that's how the cosmos sprang
No way I'd hang my hat on that... excuse my being leery
Though some folks say the Earth is flat I don't buy either theory

*That being said I'd like to shed some light upon creation
But who can say which wondrous way the stars found their formation
Most science guys are bright... not blind to much that's fake or phony
So I'm surprised that they'd align with such 'Big Bang' baloney*

What is always was... has always been... and evermore will be
And all that's young beneath the Sun's as old as old can be
So how the heck could one small speck in one supposed explosion
Spit out more stars to wish upon than fish swim in the ocean

*That being said I'd like to shed some light upon creation
But who can say which wondrous way the stars found their formation
Most science guys are bright... not blind to much that's fake or phony
So I'm surprised that they'd align with such 'Big Bang' baloney*
